BIG-HEARTED CANADA LENDS BIG BRAINS TO ALL WORLD

OTTAWA—Having loaned Sir Henry Thornton to Mexico, the Canadian government has given the services of one of its European trade commissioners to Egypt. Yves Lamontagne has gone to Cairo to fill a two-year engagement with the Egyptian government.

Egypt made the request to London and it came to Canada via the High Commissioner of a trade of tariff expert. The department of finance passed the request to the trade of commerce department, and Mr. Lamontagne was recommended.

The Carlo government finally selected Mr. Lamontagne and the Dominion government was asked to give him leave of absence from his Belgian post. During his stay in Egypt Mr. Lamontagne's salary will be paid by the Egyptian government.

LOCAL NOTES

Owing to the fact that his son Arthur has just undergone an operation in the Voking hospital, Mr. Len Horton took a trip to that town last week end.

The natural gas line is being extended these days over to the Park superintendent's house north of the railroad. Frank Fish is busy on this work.

Mr. F. Norris, of Toronto stayed over the week end on a visit to his sister, Miss Velma Norris who is teaching at Trafalgar school, before proceeding to Vancouver. He was accompanied by Mr. J. Hamelle.

We learn that Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dawley leave on Thursday to spend the winter in Vancouver.

The splendid chinook breezes of Saturday night and Sunday quickly gave place to the blizzard which visited the entire district on Monday morning of October, 1927, required for the past week however has only been down to 28 below.

Absolutely the last call for Private Printed Christmas Cards. Let us have your orders in at once at the Star office, so that we can guarantee not to disappoint you.

We are informed that Mr. Tom Goetob has been promoted to take charge of the elevator at Manville. He left for that place last week end.

The date for the children's Christmas tree entertainment at the United Church has been set for Wednesday, December 21st.

With a camera that can take 20,000 pictures a second, movies of air currents have been prepared for reference study in aviation. Details of breezes moving at fifty miles an hour are revealed so clearly that the eye can easily follow the movements and various obstacles. The flight of a pistol bullet through an electric-light bulb looked like the slow bending and final disintegration of the glass.

FORD'S NEW CAR CREATES EXCITEMENT NOW ON DISPLAY

The new Ford went on display on Friday December 2. Known as model "A" it replaces the model "T" (which for nineteen years made automotive history) and comprises a line of all passenger models supplemented by light trucks and truck models.

Pleasing appearance, wide range of bright color combinations, great power, high speed, flexibility, roadability, unusual strength, economical operation and rugged, simplified construction are cited as outstanding features of the lower, compact construction, interior hitherto peculiar to high priced machines are said to be incorporated in the new product.

The lines of the new Ford are distinctive. The wheelbase is 103½ ins. and the lower suspension and deep-crowned gracefully contoured one-piece fenders are elegant in design and suggest speed and stability. Bodies are of all-steel construction and a new type of one-piece steel spoke wheel employing a drop-centre tire and eliminating the old-fashioned rim and rim clamps is employed. A selective sliding gear transmission is used with a multiple, dry-disc clutch, and the rear axle is of the three quarter floating type with spiral bevel gears permanent by adjusted and noiseless. Full torque tube drive which relieves springs of all driving strain is featured, and four-wheel, mechanically actuated, internal expanding brakes have been incorporated in the new product. Throughout the design of the car ease and quietness of operation, great strength and accessibility of all parts have been kept in mind. According to Ford officials the purpose back of the new Ford is to provide a small car which will incorporate all light car advantages with the features of comfort, speed and safety heretofore peculiar to heavy and expensive machines. They confidently assert, has been accomplished in the new model "A" Ford. The four-cylinder power plant of the new Ford develops 40 horse power of 2200 revolution. This is practically double the power of its predecessor.

WORK OF LADIES OF UNITED CHURCH MAKES BIG BAZAAR

All and sundry of the lady shoppers of the community, wended their way on Saturday last to the C.N. club-rooms, where the Ladies' Aid of the United Church held their annual bazaar and to go so good an extent too that before closing for the evening everything in the place was cleared away and in the possession of the eager buyers.

The prettily decorated stalls formed an attractive rendezvous, and the visitors were at times crowded for room so great was the desire to obtain one or many of the numberless pretty articles on display.

The tea room, too, was a welcome "visiting" spot for a large number and the candy booth and the fishpaw also drew their quota of customers.

Much credit is due to the ladies who toiled so cheerfully to assist the end to be attained, and no less than nearly $200.00 was the financial result of their labor.

The stallholders were as follows:—
Fancy Work—Mrs F. Hackett and Mrs J. Telford.
Candy Booth—Mrs W. Knowles and Miss L. Bloom.
Home Cooking—Mrs G. Siddall and Mrs W. Edwards.
Fishpaw—Mrs G. Steel and Mrs A. Robinson.
Tea room—Mrs G. Hudson, Mrs F. Fish, Mrs C. Love and Mrs S. Wiley.

In these provinces provisions are made whereby if it is shown to the court that a debtor is able to pay and refuses to do so, action can be taken by the court even to the extent of imposing a sentence of imprisonment.

WINTER COLDS AND HOW TO CURE THEM

A cold is not a recognized cause of death, yet it is in danger of being the highest place among causes of death when the children cough and sneeze and dangerous diseases. Colds are usually very contagious, the infection being spread by drops of mucus sprayed into the air through coughing, sneezing or speaking. Contact with persons who have had colds must be avoided and when the children cough and sneeze have running noses, then Mother must keep them at home until cured. Inflamed tonsils, adenoids and nasal growths are all predisposing factors in colds as they act as centres of infection. It is desirable to have them attended to at once.

Do not overheat your home. Keep it around 65 degrees Fahrenheit. That is a good temperature. Here in the West we often over heat our houses and add to that sin the evil of a bad system of ventilation. It is no wonder in what an atmosphere that could be spread through a family from the family to the school or all over the town.

The treatment for a cold is simple enough. "Go to bed at once and stay there till better" is the advice of a well-known doctor. Drink lots of water and much drink of hot lemonade black currant juice are all excellent. Drugs should only be taken under the doctor's advice. Hot footbaths (about 110 F.) are effective followed at once by bed. Do not try to "check a cough" rather try to expectorate as this relieves the congestion. Rub the chest with warm camphorated oil. Avoid all quick remedies and so-called catarrh cures.

If there is high fever, call your doctor at once, you will lessen the danger of complications, the symptoms of which cannot be always recognized by the patient's friend. Rub the chest with warm camphorated oil. Avoid all quick remedies and so-called catarrh cures.

Valuable health literature on the subject of colds is obtainable free of charge from the Red Cross Head Office Civic Building, Edmonton, Alta.

WEDDING BELLS

FORSTER-LARSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Tait of the First Presbyterian church, Edmonton at five o'clock, Saturday, November 19th when Miss Isabelle Olivia Larson, daughter of Mr and Mrs O. Larson, Jarro, was united in marriage to Mr. Russell Martin Forster, of Wainwright. The bride was becomingly attired in salmon pink georgette trimmed with silver lace and ribbons, and was attended by her sister Miss Gladys Larson in pale blue georgette. The bride groom was attended by Mr. Roland D. Gault of Edmonton.

After the ceremony the bridal party adjourned to the King Edward Cafe where a delicious dinner was served, after which a most enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr and Mrs R. C. Peterson.

SLAUGHTER OF BUFFALO SOON TO BE COMPLETED

The killing off of 1,000 head of buffalo at the Wainwright Buffalo Park is being carried on and it is expected that the slaughter will be completed some time before Christmas. P. Burns and Company has the contract for the slaughtering of 1,000 head of the huge animals and owing to the wonderful growth of grass in the park this year the meat is of exceptional good quality and the hides are in first-class shape. The meat is being put on the market for domestic consumption.

Wainwright herd was first brought into Wainwright from Pablo, Montana in 1908-9 and consisted of 741 head. Since then the herd has increased to an enormous size and at times has topped 8,000 head.

The herd has taxed the capacity of the park and in order to keep down the proper proportion of the Dominion government authorities have for some years past slaughtered a large number and shipped others to the Arctic regions, where they have been reported to be increasing steadily.

When the shipment is made next spring, the total number of buffalo in the park in the north will have reached 7,200 head. No animals over three years of age are shipped and the quota next spring will be yearlings and two-year-olds. When the present slaughter is completed 5,500 will have been killed off.

Wainwright Buffalo Park is 160 square miles in extent and has 72 miles of fencing around the main park with 150 miles of cross-fencing. The fences are continually controlled by riders who look for breaks and repair them.

The present quota of animals which is being slaughtered are all large. The bulls are tipping the scales around 2,200 pounds, live weight, and the cows 1,100 pounds.

Sam Purcell who has slaughtered all of the animals at the park in the past year, estimates the job for next year at 5,000 head. He has averaged a cartridge and a half, and at present his kill is averaging around 50 head per day.

The hunters arrived at Peers on Sunday last week and started out for camp some miles from Peers, on Monday morning they shot the first bull by the side of the road before reaching the camp. The second was shot half an hour after they had arrived. Tuesday was spent in getting the animals back to the railway.

CATCHING 'EM WHILE THEY BITE IF POSSIBLE!

During the past few weeks a number of residents of Canada have received an offer through the mails to purchase Bankers' Shares from the Capital City Company, of Wilmington, Delaware. These shares are supposed to be security for the Ford Motor Company of Canada. The following letter, which was sent to a resident in Toronto Saturday night and should be of interest to those who contemplated putting their money into the scheme.

Editor Gold and Drossa:

I have received a warrant from the Capital City Company, 508 Citizens Bank Building, Wilmington, Delaware, entitling me to subscribe for Bankers' Shares of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited at a price of $10 each I gather from this warrant that every block of one hundred of these Bankers' Shares is secured by one share of capital stock of the Ford Motor Company of Canada. Apparent by it is a plan by which small investors may combine to purchase the high priced Ford Stock and so gain a share in the Ford profits. I have always understood that the Ford Motor Company of Canada is a very high-class company and I don't suppose they would lend their name to anything of doubtful value. However, I would like to have your comment to be on the safe side. This is a special privilege to motor-car owners and is only good for a few days, so please advise at once.

D. S. A. Collingwood, Ont.

This is indeed a wonderful opportunity! An opportunity which, if seized upon is absolutely sure to result in big profits for somebody. Let us consider it a moment. You have been extended the "privilege" of buying so-called Bankers' Shares at $10 each, 100 of which it is stated will be the equivalent to one share of the capital stock of the Ford Motor Company of Canada. Supporting that you subscribe for one hundred of these "bankers' shares" you will thus pay the Capital City Company a total of $1,000 for them. In other words, you will pay the Capital City Company $1,000 for the equivalent of one share of Ford Motor Company of Canada stock. But—and it is a big but—you can purchase Ford of Canada stock itself for around $57.00, per share per day. Paying $1,000 for something which can be bought elsewhere for $57.00 or $10 for something worth $57.00, isn't that very attractive, do you think? And this is supposing that there really is Ford of Canada stock behind these "bankers' shares".

You are quite correct, of course, in saying that the Ford Motor Company of Canada would not likely to lend their name to anything of doubtful value. The point is that they have lent their name—it has been taken without authority, by this Wilmington gang calling themselves the Capital City Company. This game is by no means a new one. In 1924 and 1925 it was worked over and over again in both Canada and Great Britain by scrupulous organizations operating from the United States, and Saturday Night published many warnings regarding it.

Looking for Xmas Gifts? Then you can't do better than to see our new "Red and Gold" Gift line at the Wainwright Pharmacy.

Mr Tom Dolan has now moved into the old Howes residence on Fourth avenue west.

EMIGRANTS TO BE EXAMINED IN OLD COUNTRY

LONDON—Twenty doctors from Canada have arrived here for the inspection of potential migrants from this side of the Atlantic to the Dominion under the new pre-emigration medical examination scheme which has been placed in operation by the Canadian department of public health.

It is hoped by testing the fitness of prospective emigrants before they sail, that possibility of their rejection on arrival in Canada will be practically eliminated.

A hen is the only thing on the farm that can sit still and pay dividends. You can sit still and be comfortable this winter, if you take home some storm doors and windows and a load of Black Diamond coal. Of course you can get it at the Atlas yard. Phone 57.

It was lighted by the soft gleam of a single huge lamp beautifully inlaid. On the floor was a heavy oriental carpet, its golden richness lost in the deep shadows beyond the circle of light.
Soft, silken cushions were scattered about in inviting piles.Buckwell closed the door and crossed to a heavy silk curtain that covered nearly all one side of the room.
Reaching behind the drapery he brought out an embroidered Chinese coat, and slipped on. He tooped is off with a small tight fitting skull cap of black silk.Again reaching for the curtain he pulled it aside with an air of deep reverence and exposed to view a life-size figure of a Buddha resting on a throne of jade and pearls. Over the
light shone on the face of the Buddha
Buckwell stood revealed as a real
Mongolian as any of the tong leadershe had dismissed from his living room.
Gone were all the characteristics of the political Carr and the King of the Tenderloin and in their place now that he was safe from the prying eyes of his henchmen appeared the immobile slant eyed features of a Chinaman.Bowing low before the image he fell on his knees and rocking back and forth as if his very soul was in torment prayed, "Oh God of my Fathers forgive me—forgive me that I have sinned against my people—that I have denied my blood and have persecuted those who are my brothers."As Buckwell continued praying to the God of his ancestors a peal of wild laughter burst from a half lit corner of the room. Buckwell shuddered.The face of a hideous dwarf barely discernible peered through the iron bars of a cage-like affair that was built in one side of the wall. His lips
Buckwell stood revealed as a real Mongolian as any of the tong leadersad the kneeling figure before the shrine his wild laughter re-echoed through the underground room.Buckwell rose from his knees and shrank back in fear at the bald crazed face peering down upon him. The dwarf's gaunt arm draped in tattered rag came through the bars and his finger pointed at Buckwell accusingly."So," he said, "there are more evil deeds upon your soul. Once more you come to seek forgiveness not through penitence but to dispel the black fear from your cowardly heart."Again the laugh rang out and the finger still pointed in derision. It was done with deliberate intent to infuriate Buckwell, the poor dwarf's only means of retaliation.It was more than Buckwell could stand. With a glare of fury he seized the extended arm and whipping out a clerically concealed knife from his waist line poised it threateningly.The dwarf did not flinch. "Kill me!"
he said tauntingly, looking Buckwell full in the face. "To go to the arms of my ancestors would be infinitely more sweet than to endure this prison you have made for me."They gazed at each other, fastid-iously lured into the eyes of one contempt in those of the other. I was unbelievable that two men so different in appearance could be blood brothers. Buck-well dropped his brother's arm as sud-deply as he had seized it and turned back to the shrine with bowed head."So you fear to put an end to the tortures of this decaying body of mine
You the dauntless bird of prey are afraid! Afraid! Yet I fear nothing."Buckwell remained standing with bowed head. He did not speak.
The voice came again. "You the vulture—I the pitiful worm. You remember the words of Confucius my brother.
"Falling hurts least those who fly low."For years Buckwell had kept this creature a prisoner. It was a useless creature, to prevent his naturality for being revealed. Although warped in body, the ill-fated brother had a keen mind and would have exposed Buckwell as a betrayer of his race.The derisive laughter of the imprisoned dwarf continued to ring in Buckwell's ears like the inevitable tolling of death, as he threw himself on his knees before the shrine and resumed his praying.

CHAPTER VI

A Warning

As Dolores sat beside the fountain idly looking out a melody on her guitar she forgot about their escape difficulty and began day dreaming about Terry.Suddenly she recalled the old myth of the wishing well and breaking a blossom from a nearby rose bush toss-ed it over her shoulder into the fountain saying "I wish, wish, that Terry would come and help us!"The dull thump of something falling in her lap made Dolores' eyes fly open in surprise. A rose, the very rose she had thrown into the wishing well, was caught in the strings of her guitar!
Before she could turn around to see where it had come from another rose fell beside it! Jumping up quick-ly she looked around and found—Terry with a third rose in his upraised hand.They both burst into merry laughter and Terry lost no time in presenting the remaining flower with due formality.
"Thank you, Dolores, smiling shyly pinning it in her hair with true Spanish artistry."

hour without strain on motor or chassis.Riding comfort—flexible springs and four hydraulic shock absorbers permit comfortable travel at high speed over the roughest road.Roadability—this car's low center of gravity holds it snugly to the road on an unbanked turn even at high speed.Power—in deep, loose sand with the front wheels cramped and from a dead stop, the car will turn in a tight circle, forward or reverse, without effort.Effective braking—the instant response of mechanical, four-wheel brakes with dual control ensures positive braking for any emergency.Positive steering control—A relaxed hand on the steering wheel will hold the car steady in loose sand and over bumpy roads. Turning radius 17 ft.Economy—30 miles per gallon of gasoline, plus the well known economics of Ford car maintenance.Appearance—coach work of pleasing proportions, tastefully finished in an extensive range of color combinations of durable satin lacquer.Quietness—Vibration in the engine is practically negligible. New final drive is exceptionally quiet. Double-ply anti-squeak tape, asphaltum treated fabric and hardwood blocks between body and frame minimize body noises.

Performance

Acceleration—5 to 25 M. P. H. in 8½ Seconds

30 Miles Per Gallon Gasoline Consumption

Engine—At 2200 revolutions per minute the new four cylinder engine develops 40 H. P. This revolution speed is low for such power and sets an entirely new standard for light car speed and acceleration, enduring quality and operating economy.Engine lubrication—Combination of pump, splash and gravity feed thoroughly lubricates all frictional surfaces regardless of road grades.Cooling system—Combination water pump and Ford thermo-syphon system doubly insures ample radiation.
Engine warms up quickly but will not overheat.Electrical system—The new Ford designed distributor is placed on top of engine permitting direct connection to spark plugs by means of short bronze bands. The single coil is protected by a waterproof case. Co-incidental lock on ignition circuit is theft proof. The powerful starting motor and dependable generator are both of Ford design.Clutch and transmission—Patterned after the famous Lincoln, these units give an operating ease never before found in moderate priced cars. The nine plate multiple dry disc clutch and the selective transmission are designed to make shifting of gears remarkably easy and simple.
Getaway, unexcelled by any car made today, is just one of the many advantages. Three speeds forward and one reverse. All gears are made of heat-treated chrome alloy steel.
The only light car in which transmission shafts are mounted on ball and roller bearings.Rear Axle—The axle shaft itself carries no weight as the ¾ floating principle places the weight of the car on the axle housing. Flexible roller bearings minimize rear wheel friction. A Torque Tube drive and spiral bevel gear are additional features.Springs—Transverse semi-elliptic design. Relieved of all driving strain, they perform the sole function of cushioning road shocks. The transverse type of spring helps to prevent a large amount of frame distortion, makes four-wheel brake operation more efficient, gives easier steering and reduces unsprung weight.

Chassis lubrication—Alemite-Zerk pressure system.

WAINWRIGHT, ALBERTA DECEMBER 7th, 1927MORE MEN: LESS MILES

In respect of hydro power development the Manitoba Free Press divides its energies between boosting Manitoba power projects and "knocking" Alberta power.

The Free Press received with elation the news that a new railroad would be constructed to the Flin Flon mining country. Its satisfaction was shared by this paper and elsewhere in Canada. The spending of $50,000,000 on mining, smelting and power in the Flin Flon country will be a good thing for Winnipeg and for the country in general.

In this connection the Free Press said that had it not been for the accessibility of water-powers this development could not have been undertaken. It spoke of what hydro-power means to the progress of industry.

Winnipeg will gain greatly by the extraction of mineral wealth from Northern Manitoba and Northern Saskatchewan and the remainder of Canada will rejoice with Winnipeg in this improvement.

Everything that the Free Press has said about the value of hydro-electric power in Northern Manitoba applies with equal force and truth to the situation respecting power from Spray Lakes. Calgary and Alberta stand to benefit by this development just as Winnipeg and Manitoba will benefit by the power produced for the Flin Flon territory.

But, because Spray Lakes are near the edge of a national park thousands of square miles in extent the Free Press declares that this power and this city must be prevented from securing the very advantages which it welcomes from the water-power of Northern Manitoba.

In its latest article opposing Alberta's progress the Manitoba Free Press speaks of taking the people's breathing space away from them. Alberta has 7,463 square miles of breathing space in national parks and all the rest of the Rocky Mountains to breathe in, but it has a very small amount of developed water-power for industries and for the home comfort of small communities and farms.

Canadian people are not in danger of suffocation for want of breathing spaces but their sons are being crowded out of Canada for want of jobs. We can do in this country with more industries and a few square miles less of park, if need be.—Calgary Herald.

THE OPEN ROADS OF WINTER

When a blustering nor'wester or a bitter gale from the southeast sweeps over the snow-covered face of the country then trouble is afoot for those who travel and those whose public obligation it is to see that the roads are kept in shape for traffic.

The winter of 1926-27 virtually brought highway motor traffic to a standstill when restless furrows of snow piled into huge drifts and made it impossible for autos to keep their own tracks open. Already this year snow fall and frost have given a hint of troublesome traffic months ahead, and unless more systematic measures are adopted in clearing the roads motorists may expect to battle once more with king Winter under conditions that offer little prospect of easy success.

Thus far the provincial highways department has steadfastly refused to undertake the clearing of the roads during the winter as part of an official obligation, though there has been no hesitancy in accepting responsibility for the maintenance of main highways in the snowless months of the year. In other northern provinces and states it has been established by practical tests that public funds expended in keeping roads open for traffic during the winter have been more than justified by the increased volume of business transacted.

Undoubtedly Alberta is reaching the stage where some definite policy must be adopted for maintaining winter motorways. Already a number of municipalities and service clubs in the country have outlined plans and pledged themselves to keep certain principal traffic arteries free of snow during the coming winter. With a heavy fall of snow at any time, the demand for more extensive organization of this kind would increase rapidly. Probably the government will be required to accept a measure of responsibility in connection with the considerable mileage of main highway now constructed. Certainly with the Edmonton-Calgary highway gravelled for the entire distance between the two cities the travelling public would raise an outcry were there through and inter-town traffic to be blocked by snowdrifts for any appreciable time during the winter.—Good Roads Magazine.

'ANKLES PREFERRED' A FAM. MOVIE STORY

Madge Bellamy, charming Fox Film star, comes to the theatre Monday and Tuesday in 'Ankles Preferred', a stirring, evenly drama of metropolitan life. She is surrounded by an excellent cast. In this fast moving story of modern life, Miss Bellamy starts as a wage-earner in a metropolitan store, rises rapidly to better things with Goldberg and McGuire, proprietors of a fashionable modish shop, and then faces defeat and humiliation when she is given the position of entertainer of out-of-town buyers. Ollan Forrest, in the person of Hornsbee, a shareholder in the firm is making life unbearable for Nora when her friend, and protector, Barnum, steps in and attempts to adjust. This complicates matters, results in misunderstanding and ultimately in a bitter fight. She wins happiness in the end but is made to realize that peace of mind is won only as a result of earnest labor along the "ankles" line.

If spiders are busy spinning their webs, fair weather may be expected but if they are resting, the fact is an indication of impending storms or wet weather, some naturalists say. The reason is that the spider, knowing that its prey will not be abroad during rain or other unfavorable conditions, does not bother to make its nest at such times, but prepares it for catches during fair weather.

Regimental Piping Awards Announced

1. Inter-Regimental Trophy presented by F. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific. 2. Lt. Charles Dunbar, winner of the trophy. 3. Piper Neil Sutherland, winner of second trophy.

As a question of military status was involved in the regimental piping competition held at the Band Highland Gathering in September, the final decision as to the holders of the trophies was referred by mutual consent to the Minister of National Defence, under whose authority the competition was held. The decision has just been given by Major-General Thacker, Chief of General Staff, to the effect that the trophy given by Mr. E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, as originally offered to pipers from Highland Regiments, be awarded to Lieutenant Charles Dunbar, D.C.M.—Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders of Canada, Hamilton, Ontario—this being accompanied by a cash prize of $100.00. Under this regimental piping competition, the Toronto Scottish Regiment, ranks for second prize of $50.00 and Piper-Sergeant Hugh McBeth, of the Calgary Highlanders, for third prize of $25.00. Piper Neil Sutherland, of the Twelfth Signal Battalion, Canadian Corps of Signallers, Regina, is awarded the first place in the competition for a trophy of equivalent value as Champion Pipe Player, Canadian Militia, the trophy to be held by the contestant who wins it in two successive competitions and the trophy remaining the property of the unit to which the winner belongs. Neil Sutherland receives $100.00 cash as winner. Second in this competition is Pipe-Major James Hamilton, of the Canadian Fusiliers, London, Ontario, who receives a substantial cash prize.

ARE PARENTS PEOPLE

ARTICLE EIGHT

(Published by arrangement with Canadian Social Hygiene Council)

1. Does the present-day parent compare favorably or unfavorably with the parent of past generations?

2. To what extent can parents be blamed for juvenile delinquency? And in what respects?

3. Can a parent by controlling environment and companionship mould the character of the child as desired?

4. Do you believe in the principle of parent education? If so, what should it include?

5. At what age do you think parent education should start? Should it be before or after marriage?

6. Do you think the inclusion of health as a major topic in a parent education scheme might do much to increase the physical well-being of the country?

BY JUDGE H. S. MOTT
Juvenile Court, Toronto.

I am frequently convinced that not only the children but the parents are living in an age of indigestible opportunities. The application of modern science of the principles pleasure and other activities has opened up a new field of enjoyment. The motor car has spread the walls of the home, until today the word "home" does not mean the four walls that it used to mean in times gone by. In the midst of these conditions we are making adjustments and I have not by any means lost faith in the parent of the present day. This is a general statement; there are many who are falling down hopelessly; there are others who are battling manfully to meet their obligations sometimes succeeding and sometimes failing.

2. What then is the remedy? According to a bulletin entitled "Why You Insulate Your Home" issued at Ottawa by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service for the Dominion Fuel Board the logical remedy is in the incorporation of a suitable thickness of an insulating material in the walls and roof of new houses. The heat-retaining qualities of houses already built may also be considerably improved by applying insulation particularly in the roof. It is estimated by the Resources Service engineers that a properly insulated house will save at least $50 per year in fuel bills and provide a maximum of comfort.

3. This question is open to a good deal of thought, and one somewhat hesitates in answering it on account of the many viewpoints by which it may be approached but generally speaking if the child is normal mentally and physically, and if it has hereditary equipment which is not too much impaired, environment and companionship will definitely and positively assist in the moulding of character to be desired.

4. Parents are very much in need of assistance in parent education. We have so many successful cases due to the assistance that has been given to the parents that has helped them to overcome their failure before assistance is given that there is no doubt in our mind the value of parent education.

5. In answer to the fifth question I would say that this parent education should start before marriage.

6. In regard to question number six I somewhat hesitate not being a medical man to make any comment upon it.

PREVENTABLE FUEL WASTAGE IN HOUSES

With the advent of the heating season, householders are again forcibly reminded the daily grind of furnace operation and the frequent removal of ashes is at hand. Do they realize that in many modern houses an appreciable amount of fuel and labor are wasted by the escape of heat, and that the prevention of this heat loss is simple and inexpensive as compared to the saving effected?

Investigations have found that approximately 75 per cent of Canadian houses allow excessive heat to be lost in many instances disposes the equivalent of from 20 to 50 per cent of the fuel consumed. Unfortunately the only visual manifestation of this waste is seen in winter shortly after a snow storm. The heat passing through the roof melts the snow leaving the upper part of the roof either wholly or partially bare while the garage, verandah and eaves still bear an unbroken covering of white. Too often even this warning remains unnoticed.

When it is realized that at best domestic furnaces and stoves deliver but 50 to 60 per cent of the theoretical heat contained to the house interior, the importance of conserving the greatest possible amount of this available heat at once appears.

What then is the remedy? According to a bulletin entitled "Why You Insulate Your Home" issued at Ottawa by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service for the Dominion Fuel Board the logical remedy is in the incorporation of a suitable thickness of an insulating material in the walls and roof of new houses. The heat-retaining qualities of houses already built may also be considerably improved by applying insulation particularly in the roof. It is estimated by the Resources Service engineers that a properly insulated house will save at least $50 per year in fuel bills and provide a maximum of comfort.

Copies of the bulletin in question may be obtained free of charge from the Director, Natural Resources Intelligence Service, Department of Interior, Ottawa.

ALBERTA FARMERS LIQUIDATE DEBTS BY BUMPER CROP

EDMONTON—One of the most considerable benefits that will follow the big grain crop in Alberta will be the liquidation of a great amount of farmers' indebtedness and the rehabilitation of many debtors whose business affairs have been in bad shape for some years past. This will mean on the other side of the picture that many banks implement firm and other accounts that have been carrying over for a corresponding period and have long since been put on the bad-collection list, will be settled and closed. Thousands of dollars will be written off the books in this way, and scores of debtors and creditors alike will have real signs of relief.

In the process aside from the actual harvesting of the grain, the major part will be taken by the debt adjustment service of the Alberta Government, a service that is unique among the governmental activities of any of the Canadian provinces. About 25,000 cases of farmer-debtors by whom or for whom financial adjustment is being sought, are now being dealt with, and there are good prospects for practically all of them reaching satisfactory settlements. Similar adjustments have been made in several hundred previous cases, during the past four years, but the number will be greatly increased this year as a result of economic conditions throughout the province. There will be more debt adjusting than ever before, but that will mean simply that good crops and consequently improved conditions among the farmers will make it possible for book debts of long standing to be squared off and the whole business structure eased accordingly.

IT'S ALL "PAID IN FULL"

"Third notice." Every editor has received them. The postmaster sends them to the editor. The postmaster is not to blame. For instance, there is a man by the name of—well, say Tim Short, who sent us three notices of stop his paper. He did not want it any longer; we wondered what was the matter. Upon investigating our subscription list we found that Tim was short five dollars and seventy cents. He had never paid a cent and yet he stopped his paper as a matter of economy—to us. A few evenings ago we received into a church and Tim's melodious voice rang out clear in the song "Jesus Paid It All." We may have been mistaken but his earnestness impressed us. The next day we sent him a receipt in full, begging his pardon for not knowing that he had made an assignment of his liabilities to the Lord—Carrollton (Mo.) Republican Record.

power has been effected without sacrifice of economy and it is claimed that the new car will afford thirty or more miles to the gallon of gasoline. This remarkable increase in power is effected through use of a larger cylinder bore, by static and dynamic balancing of flywheel and crankshaft, and by use of light reciprocating parts. The new motor is practically vibrationless owing to the careful balancing of these parts.

The Model "A" motor incorporates a number of unusual features of design which have been born of years of experiment. Most of these features make for long life, simplified service and more economical maintenance. Lubrication is a combination of pump and splash systems and cooling combines thermo-siphon and pump circulation of water. The water pump is so designed that it comes into use only when the motor is turning at a fair rate of speed in cold weather is thus avoided. The motor itself is essentially a low-speed motor, developing its maximum power at 2200 r.p.m. This is consistent with established Ford practice which always aimed at securing a minimum amount of piston travel per mile of road travel with a resultant minimum of strain and wear on moving parts.

The transmission departs from conventional light car practice in the use of ball and roller bearings instead of bushings. These bearings make for more satisfactory operation, smoother running and longer life. The steering gear also is unique in the light car field, being of the irreversible worm and sector type with the worm carried in ball bearings. Front end weight of the car also is carried on roller bearings which are placed at the top of the spindle bolts, and the result of these refinements is unusual ease in steering.

Transverse semi-elliptic springing is used, and for it Ford engineers claim the following advantages: that the springs contract with the frame at only one point and that in the centre line of the chassis with the result that the chassis is subjected to no twisting strains; that it permits the full torque tube drive; that it reduces unsprung weight to a minimum and improves riding qualities that the springs have only their natural function of absorbing road shocks to perform; and that danger of uneven tension upon brake rods. The brakes are of the Ford design and operate on the inner surface of substantial steel drums. All brake parts are cadmium plated as a precaution against rust and each brake is instantaneously adjustable through manipulation of a small adjusting stud on the exterior of each brake drum. Brake pedal or hand lever will apply all four brakes simultaneously. Sixty per cent of the braking effort is applied to the rear wheels and forty per cent to the front wheels.

The new car is completely equipped with five-steel-spoke wheels improved method of chassis and motor lubrication four hydraulic shock absorbers, speedometer, windshield wiper, rear view mirror, remote door-latch controls. There are six body styles. Each style will be available in an extensive range of optional color combinations. Unusual performance unprecedented in the light car is claimed for the new Ford Model "A". It will attain a speed in excess of 60 miles per hour and may be held at the speed for long periods without discomfort to passenger or injury to the mechanism. It accelerates at a terrific pace and seems literally to leap away when the clutch is engaged. It has been driven at more than 40 miles per hour in intermediate gear.

Don't Tell The Wife

"DON'T TELL THE WIFE" starring RANNY RAY is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel

CHAPTER XVIII

Meanwhile on the train that had borne them a day and a night from New York to that farthest northern joint of the Maine border where the tiny town of Port Ashnook sprawled with one elbow in Maine and the other one in New Brunswick, Canada, Clare Clementson had carefully avoided Ranny.

She knew Ranny's temper and temperament perfectly well enough to know that if he saw her, or dreamed that she was on that train he would get off at the very next station.

Every female passenger and more than one male had observed with interest the tall soldierly chap with the bronzed skin and far away eyes who kept similarly aloof.

By burying her head in a newspaper whenever he passed during the day, by paying the price of eternal vigilance for nondiscovery Clare gained for herself the romantically pleasing privilege of studying Ranny for hours on end.

For Ashnook was crisscrossed in the shoes of a baby blizzard winter comes early and hard in the Great North Woods.

Ranny stepping off the front Pullman of the through International train gloried in the prospect of blustery weather and sucked in great drafts of pine-cleaned air.

Clare shivering like an orchid in a frost got off inconspicuously at the far end of the second Pullman and wished fervently that she were back in steam-heated New York.

Keeping track of Ranny in Port Ashnook after the Express drew away offered no difficulties. There was only one hotel in the town.

Clare gave him plenty of time to get there and registered before she, too, went to the quaint old Inn and sought accommodations. She did not register under her correct name. She wished to avoid at all hazards, the possibility of Ranny learning her presence from the register and possibly taking defensive measures before she confronted him in the flesh.

Supper—as the good but simple meal, was officially known—that night afforded her an excellent stage setting. He had his back to the door when she entered. He was grinning to himself in a wince pleased way as he ate. Then a silky voice fell upon his ears. "I just adore grass widows!"

Ranny almost kicked over his chair in his amazement as he arose.

Clare met his stony, far from welcoming gaze and smile that him temper was bewildered and alarmed for the moment in spite of himself.

She WAS a provoking, alluring little witch as she stood there smiling and liping.

"Ranny old dear you needn't look as though you're seeing a ghost. It's I, your little Clare in the flesh—look!"

She pinched one velvety cheek and demurely turned it up for his inspection of the glowing finger marks.

Two weeks ago Ranny would have considered this a cute trick out of Clare's widow-bag. Now it disgusted him.

But—the other diners were staring at his lip and politely drew up a chair for her.

"You've done a terribly foolish thing—he began. But Clare not a bit overawed by his anger vavly hushed him.

"I learned from Stivner that you were coming here to get divorced!"

"I'm not going to get a divorce! I'm merely saying so win back my wife I love her—but if she learns you are here it will spoil my chances for proving it!"

Clare suddenly underwent a startling metamorphosis. The latterly because a tiger, Ranny she'll never have you again no matter what I have to do to prevent it! I love you—and I'll have you."

There was no denying the intensity of Clare's passionate declaration. Fleed were the lip and the baby stare. In their place flamed the hot strong determination of "woman" who has her body and soul set on a particular man.

Ranny had gone very white of face while he stared at her and listened to her burning whispers.

"Clare you're mad," he managed to bluster at last.

"Never sinner in my life!" she said and her smile was not pleasant to behold. "I love you Ranny Forbes And whom I love—I get Livingstone Stivner would trade all his billions for the chance to hear me say that to him."

Ranny aware he was stacked up against a very serious problem thought slowly and spoke gingerly:

"Not that I am unappreciative of what the privilege to be foremost in your affections may mean but merely because it's impossible for me to reciprocate anything deeper than friendship with you I'll make the deal with Stivner."
